Diplomats Hurry on Conference Would Start Talks To Avoid Shooting

TUNIS (AP)—The United States was reported racing against time today in an effort to bring France and Tunisia together in some sort of conciliation talks over the bombing of a Tunisian village.

Informed sources said U. S. diplomats in Washington and Paris were trying to get talks started before any shooting breaks out or before the crisis comes up in the U. N. Security Council Tuesday.

"Nothing could be more embarrassing for the free world than a U. N. debate," one diplomat here said.

Looking for Formula

Informants said that exploratory talks between U. S. and French officials were going on in Paris and Washington to find a face saving formula to avoid the U. N. debate.

The Tunisians have asked for the United States to mediate the dispute but France has remained cool to the proposal. A French government spokesman said after a Cabinet meeting in Paris today France was willing to accept the good offices of any country in an effort to settle the dispute but he still ruled out direct mediation.

The French Cabinet decided today to pay damages to civilian victims of last Saturday's bombing and strafing of the border village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef.

Trouble on Supplies

The French government spokesman confirmed also that French troops in Tunisia are being supplied by tacit agreement. Tunisian soldiers have held French troops to their bases and prevented them from receiving supplies.

Meanwhile, the Tunisian ministry of information said it had been informed of new French troop movements on the Tunisian-Algerian frontier near the bombed village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef. But later it described them as routine.

Tunisia says 79 persons were killed, including 31 women and children, and 130 wounded in the air raid.

U. S.-Anglo Pact Due on Monday For IRBM Bases

LONDON (AP)—An agreement to station U. S. intermediate range ballistic missile bases in this country is expected to be signed here Monday or Tuesday.

The defense ministry said today the exact date for the signing has not yet been determined. Defense Minister Duncan Sandys will report to the House of Commons Wednesday or Thursday on the agreement.

Sites Not Told

Location of the IRBM sites—believed to be four—has not been made known.

Originally, it was reported that Sweden had led observers to believe that plans for sites in Scotland have been dropped in favor of the east Anglia area on the North Sea northeast of London.

Sweden is neutral in the East-West conflict and it is understood would oppose missiles flying over her territory from Scotland to Russia in case of war.

Responsibility Split

At the December NATO conference in Paris, the North Atlantic Pact nations agreed on the principle of stationing U. S. missiles in Europe, where the 1500-mile range weapons would be in position to fire into Russian territory.

The NATO nations also agreed to split the responsibility, with the United States controlling nuclear warheads and European teams firing the rocket itself.

Ontario Will Join NY-Canada Span Plan

TORONTO (AP)—Highways Minister James Allan said yesterday the Ontario government is prepared to join in any feasible plan to build a bridge from Cape Vincent, N. Y., to Kingston, Ont.

In Watertown, N. Y., earlier, Sidney McCumber, chairman of the Thousand Islands Bridge Authority, said discussion was under way but action on the project hinges on the Ontario government. Allan said exploratory talks are being held with the bridge authority.

McCumber said Ontario would have to make definite plans for planning and financing before the project could get under way.

McCumber said the authority would require an extension of its powers from the New York State Legislature before it could build the bridge.

Temperatures Hover at Zero

Gulf Storm Poses New Threat to Area, State

Albany Weather Bureau reported a new sweep of snow moving northeastward today to this area and hard-pressed New York State as temperatures hovered around the zero mark.

Associated Press reported.

Kingston after three days of sub-zero temperatures registered an overnight low of 11 degrees Friday and dropped again to an unofficial 2 above low for last night.

Mercury Inches Up

County areas reported temperatures slightly above and below zero.

Brown's Station at Ashokan Reservoir and the reading on Saugerties Municipal Building registered 2 below zero at 7 o'clock this morning.

Ellenville in the southern part of the county was slightly warmer with 5 above reported by Ellenville state police.

Cold spots in the northern part of the county—Mt. Marion and Blue Mountain in the Town of Saugerties—reported 4 below temperatures this morning.

Wednesday's low of minus three in Kingston broke a 23-year record for that date. February 12, 1935 the mercury reached five above.

Due Here Tonight

Associated Press reported a storm bubbling in the Gulf of Mexico was headed northeastward and would reach here sometime tonight.

But wary forecasters said it was "too early to tell" how hard the storm would hit New York, already plagued by waist-deep snow and drifts up to 15 feet deep.

Snow would begin to fall in Western and Central New York sections this afternoon, forecasters said, and spread to most of Upstate New York tonight and tomorrow.

Vigorous Disturbance

This first snow will come from a "minor disturbance" moving into the state from the west, the bureau said. It described the Gulf storm as a "vigorous disturbance."

Near-zero temperatures and 25-mile-an-hour winds will add to the troubles.

Temperatures overnight plunged to 25 below at Saranac Lake and 19 below at Old Forge, in the Adirondacks; 19 below at Massena and 15 below at Potsdam, in Northern New York; and 11 below at Plattsburgh in the northeastern tip.

Kept $10,000 in Drawer

Utica Chief Denies Any Vice Payoffs

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo F. Miller, police chief of Utica who is seeking retirement, told state investigators yesterday that he kept $10,000 in cash in a dresser drawer in his home.

He was quoted as saying he kept the money in a tin box and that the money came from savings on his $6,500-a-year salary.

Miller denied that the money represented payment for protecting gambling and prostitution in the Upstate city.

"An unusual amount in an unusual place," said acting State Investigation Commissioner Arthur L. Reuter, in disclosing Miller's testimony.

Miller has been police chief since 1947, except for two years when he served as Utica commissioner of public safety. He applied for retirement Thursday.

Both Reuter and the state Legislature's watchdog committee are investigating reports of widespread gambling and prostitution in Utica.

Last week, the Oneida County grand jury said in a presentment

Stassen Resigns Arms Job President Regrets Decision to Leave

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Harold E. Stassen resigned today as President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser in order to run for governor of Pennsylvania.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said at the President's vacation headquarters the decision was Stassen's own and that he was not asked to resign.

In accepting the resignation, Eisenhower wrote Stassen "I deeply regret that you are leaving the federal government, effective today, and that our five-year association together in government is to terminate."

In recent months Stassen and Secretary of State Dulles have been at odds over disarmament policy. That led to reports—pinned to at least one high administration official—that Eisenhower had decided Stassen had outlived his usefulness.

Hagerty, when asked today whether Stassen had been asked to get out, replied:

"Of course he wasn't."

Hagerty added "he thought the friendly tone of Eisenhower's letter made that clear. And he pointed to the friendly tone of Stassen's letter of resignation to the President in saying Stassen was leaving of his own accord to bid for political office."

Solons Suggest
$500 Cash Awards
For Math Passers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brush up on your math, kids—there may be gold in them thar equations and theorems.

Several Congress members have proposed $500 cash awards to any high school graduate who can pass a standard examination in mathematics.

Response Is Good

Rep. Price (D-Ill.), one sponsor of the legislation, said "everyone who has heard of this proposal likes it. The bill is pending before a House commerce subcommittee."

Dr. Alan Waterman, chief of the National Science Foundation, said yesterday the proposal has "much to recommend it" as a means of helping increase the nation's future supply of scientists.

Waterman, testifying before a Senate-House atomic subcommittee on research and development, said he felt the idea would be very effective in encouraging more students to study math and in preparing them to go on to higher studies in science, engineering and mathematics.

Price said the cash award proposal not only would provide an incentive for more boys and girls to become proficient in mathematics, but also might be a means of showing up any deficiencies in the teaching of the subject.

There would be competition among high schools all over the country, he said, to see how many of their young people could pass (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

BLAZE WRECKS WAREHOUSE—Black smoke still billows skyward Feb. 14 as firemen continue to pour water on gutted remnant of block-long warehouse wrecked by spectacular blaze in Erie, Pa. ### Two Firemen Lose Lives in N.Y.C. Blaze

NEW YORK (AP)—Two firemen died last night in a roaring blaze which gutted and collapsed a six-story loft building. Four other men trapped in the smoldering ruins were feared dead early today.

Rescuers dug frantically during the early morning hours for some trace of the four men, who were at the third story level when the floor caved in.

10 Firemen Hurt

Ten firemen were injured—but not seriously—battling the blaze in a paper and twine factory located in downtown Manhattan.

The five-alarm blaze raged for several hours before being brought under control.

Dug out of the debris last night were Firemen Bernard Blumenthal, of Brooklyn, a husband of three weeks, and William G. Schmitt of Staten Island. Schmitt already was dead and Blumenthal died at a hospital.

Seven workers in the building when the fire was discovered escaped unharmed.

The missing men were members of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters. Their job at a fire is to minimize smoke and water damage.

Search for Missing

They were identified as James Devine of Brooklyn, married and the father of two; Michael Tracy of Woodhaven, Queens, married three months; Louis Brusati of Brooklyn, married and the father of two; and Michael McGee of Brooklyn, also married and the father of two.

Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanaugh Jr. said a dreading men would work at the scene around the clock to find the missing men.

After the fire started there was an explosion. A fire official said the fire started on the fifth floor, possibly by a careless smoker.

Ice formed by hose water in the freezing cold added to the weight which caused the structure to collapse. The building also had contained some heavy machinery. More than 60 pieces of equipment (Continued on Page 5, Col. 6)

DA Calls Ulster Check Routine Report Residents Are Asking Reuter's Help

District Attorney Howard C. St. John said today he had "no comment at the moment" on a conference held yesterday with Town of Ulster officials involving a controversy on surrendering books and records to Supervisor Robert F. Pardee.

Denies Implications

The district attorney said "no implications are to be drawn" because of the conference.

St. John said it was a routine check by his office.

Pardee assumed the supervisor's post on Jan. 1, succeeding former Supervisor Percy Bush. St. John said state law requires the outgoing supervisor to make a report to the State Department of Audit and Control within 60 days following termination of his office.

Residents of the town, it has been unofficially reported, have contracted the Reuter Commission to make a separate investigation.

Kerhonkson Fire Leaves 4 Homeless

A mother and her three children were homeless today following a fire of undetermined origin which heavily damaged the home they occupied on State road near Kerhonkson Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Florence Cox and her three children—Michael, 13; Linda, 12, and Jo-Ann, 7—are temporarily residing at the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Loretta Burggraf.

Chief Edward Carle of the Accord Fire Department told The Freeman that the fire apparently started in an upstairs bedroom, ate up the siding into the attic, causing generally heavy damage to the entire second floor and roof.

Pull Off Roof

He said firemen—some 25 volunteers from Accord and Kerhonkson Fire Departments—had to pull slate off most of the roof to get at the blaze.

Damage was estimated roughly at $5,000. Much of the damage was reportedly caused by water. The fire was discovered about 3:30 p. m. by Linda as she descended from a school bus near her home. She saw smoke and flames pouring from an upstairs bedroom window of the two-story double-family frame dwelling. Only one of the apartments in the home was occupied, however.

Seeks Summer Primary GOP Counters Ave Veto of June Date

ALBANY (AP)—Republicans, who control the state Legislature, today were pointed toward a summer primary instead of the June date they originally wanted.

Democratic Gov. Harriman yesterday vetoed GOP legislation that would have fixed June 3 as the primary date and given the Republican candidate more time to campaign against him.

The election is Nov. 4. Unless the Legislature puts through a bill that the governor will approve, the primary will be held Sept. 16 and the party nominating conventions Sept. 24 and 25.

In a statement yesterday, Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck and Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney contended that the September primary would deprive 30,000 servicemen and their wives—or a potential 90,000 persons—of the chance to vote.

This, the GOP leaders said, was a "most shocking consequence of a political veto."

However, Harriman said in his veto message that legislation to provide for the military voters must be enacted.

His press secretary, Charles Van Devander, pointed to this later and said Heck and Mahoney were "not fooling the veterans or anyone else with their misstatements."

"Gov. Harriman will insist that such legislation be passed, even if he has to call a special session of the Legislature," Van Devander declared.

Heck and Mahoney said: "The Legislature will, before adjournment, act to assure every serviceman and his wife the usual opportunity to exercise the most important privilege of freedom in the country."

Informed Republicans said this would mean a primary in the summer. County GOP chairmen would be consulted on a specific date, which could be anywhere from late June to August.

The chairman and vice chairman of the GOP-controlled Joint Legislative Committee on the Election Law today attacked Harriman's veto as showing that he was "not fooling the veterans or anyone else with their misstatements."

However, Harriman said in his veto message that legislation to

Van Buren Waits for All Facts

Retirement Likely Will Be Discussed

Permission for Police Chief Raymond VanBuren to accept a subpoena served by the Reuter committee and appear in New York City on Monday at 1 p. m., apparently to discuss the chief's retirement, was granted yesterday by the Board of Police Commissioners.

Departmental regulations require that the chief cannot leave the city except on police business without the knowledge and consent of the mayor or two of the police commissioners.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel today issued a statement, made after contacting the commissioners, which reported Chief Van Buren had been granted permission "to pursue the necessary action as he sees fit in compliance with a subpoena" served upon him by Commissioner of Investigations Arthur L. Reuter.

Chief Van Buren received permission after Mayor Radel was reminded by Attorney Charles H. Gaffney, counsel to the Kingston Patrolmen's Association, of which the chief is a member, that action was required by the commissioners before he could "honor the subpoena."

Mayor Radel said the action was taken after telephone conversations and personal contact with Commissioners Lawrence Quilty, Roland A. Augustine, Robert S. Evory and Henry Singer. The decision was unanimous, the mayor said.

Think Its Retirement

Attorney Gaffney, in a letter yesterday to Mayor Radel, said Reuter has not divulged the subject matter of the scheduled interview, but "it was quite obvious" that the commissioner "intends to discuss a personal matter with the chief which undoubtedly relates to his retirement."

Chief Van Buren indicated this week that he anticipates retiring and resigning at the earliest possible date, pending his being included in social security.

Mayor Radel noted that social security coverage for both the police and fire department employees is being considered by his administration. The Common Council this month unanimously passed the "D" resolution, which was the only step that could be taken at the time. Any further action on the matter will depend upon the state legislature granting authorization to the city.

Awaiting All Facts

The text of Attorney Gaffney's letter to Mayor Radel follows: "In accordance with our understanding of last week, Chief Van Buren does not intend to resign until the Reuter report is released and its full contents known to him and the public. According to the news release (Continued on Page 5, Col. 7)

250 Flee Blaze At Hudson River State Hospital

Two-hundred and fifty patients and employees were evacuated shortly before midnight when fire broke out in the south wing of the Hudson River State Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

One patient, whose name was withheld, was slightly overcome by smoke, it was reported. No estimate of damage was available, but it was described as extensive.

The origin of the fire was in defective wiring located in the ceiling between the second and third floors of the four-story brick wing.

Some 30 firemen from the Hudson River State Hospital Fire Department and the nearby Fairview Fire Department fought the blaze for about two and a half hours in bitter cold.

Patients and employees in the burning wing were removed to another section of the hospital.

Firemen reported that damage from fire, smoke and water was heavy. The blaze was confined to the general area in which it was discovered.

It was described as a concealed fire that used the floor timbers "as a runway." The roof was "ventilated" to remove smoke.

Hospital firemen were under the command of Assistant Chief Malcolm Kilmer. The Fairview department was under Chief R. Earle DeVor.

41 to 4 Saxton Vote Approves New Fire Truck

Increased fire protection for residents of Saxton Fire District was assured Friday night following a 41 to 4 affirmative vote at the firehouse authorizing the purchase of an additional fire truck.

The proposal for increased fire coverage in the district was agitated by residents of the Asbury-Katsbaan area, Town of Saugerties, who seek improved coverage due to the great distance from the Saxton fire station.

A special meeting of the fire commissioners and members of the volunteer fire company to be scheduled shortly will discuss the needs of the district and a decision will be made regarding the type and size of the new pumper equipment.

In preliminary talks the purchase of a new 750 gallon pumper truck was discussed. According to the public notice advertising the special vote, the cost of the new fire fighting equipment cannot exceed $10,500.

At a recent meeting of the Saxton Fire Company it was announced that a tract of land on Old Kings Road, near the Katsbaan Reformed Church had been donated to the fire company by Freeman Lasher of Asbury. The company plans to build an additional fire station on the Katsbaan site and work on the project is expected to begin in the spring.

The fire company now operates a 1939 pumper with a capacity of 500 gallons per minute and a 1941 tank truck with 750 gallon per minute capacity. Both are district owned.

On Sharing Expenses

Dear Mrs. Post: Some friends of ours who have moved to another city have asked my husband and me to spend a week with them. I would like very much to go but I feel that our visit will be a burden on them since they do not have a great deal of money and with the cost of living being what it is today I know that our visit will add greatly to their expense. Do you suppose we could offer to pay something toward the food bill for that week and is there some tactful way to go about this?

Answer: You couldn't possibly offer them board without deeply hurting their feelings. On the other hand, there are many things you will probably find you can do, such as taking them out often to restaurants or taking them to places of amusement. You can do this and other things whereby you can turn the tables and be hosts to them.

Wedding Envelopes

Dear Mrs. Post: Has the custom of not using return addresses on the envelopes of wedding invitations and announcements changed? Or at least been modified? We feel it would be advisable to use a return address on all envelopes.

Answer: While the typical printed return address would be unconventional for wedding envelopes, an embossed address (without color) on the flap would not be out of the question. It is still best taste, however, to leave such envelopes plain and write an occasional return address by hand when there is doubt about an address.

A Most Unhappy Situation

Dear Mrs. Post: There is a young woman in my office who has an offensive odor. My work brings me in close contact with her often during the day, and this odor is really making me ill. This is a very ticklish subject I know but perhaps you can tell me how to handle this gracefully.

Answer: I am sorry but the only thing I can think of is to ask whoever is in charge of your office to assign you to other work that will keep you away from the young woman in question.

We know that the 25th wedding anniversary is silver but forgot the others. Mrs. Post lists each wedding anniversary, gifts and celebration in leaflet E-7, "Wedding Anniversaries." She is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

St. Joseph's Sets
Dating, Courtship
Council in Lent

St. Joseph's Church is one of 20 parish centers of the Archdiocese of New York which will schedule a series of conferences on dating and courtship during Lent.

Conferences at St. Joseph's are as follows: Sunday, March 2 and 9, and Wednesdays, March 5 and 12. Sunday sessions begin at 2:30 p. m. and Wednesday sessions are at 8 p. m.

According to the Rev. George A. Kelly, director of the New York Family Life Bureau, the conferences are designed to prepare young Catholics, 17 years of age and over for the engagement period.

The conferences will cover such subjects as the meaning of marriage, the factors in marital happiness, the importance of courtship, church laws on weddings and the problems connected with the early marriage and with mixed marriages. These conferences are distinguished by priests in centers established by the Family Life Bureau, 451 Madison Avenue, New York City.

"Preparation for marriage ought to begin as soon before engagement as possible," Father Kelly said. "By the time people are engaged, it is difficult to do much about some conditions that will make for a mediocre or an unhappy marriage. What can we do then about mixed marriage, or the choice of a wrong partner or bad dating habits? The best time to try our influence in these matters is prior to engagement and in the parishes where initial courting practices begin," he said.

All the conferences will be conducted by priests in centers established by the Family Life Bureau, 451 Madison Avenue, New York City.

GRAND JURY FUNCTION

Raymond J. Armater, foreman of the Ulster County Grand Jury, in calling on signers of petitions alleging irregularities in government to testify before the jury had these cogent remarks to say:

"We believe that it is our constitutional duty to inquire into all crimes committed in the county and to present them to the court. We intend to fulfill our sworn obligation to do so.

"The grand jury is composed of citizens from all walks of life and of all political persuasions. We feel, however, that the time has come when rumors and suspicions should be confirmed or removed completely from our public scene. We intend to determine whether the charges in the various petitions which have been circulated prior to election time are fact or fiction.

"The grand jury does not question the right of any person to petition any person or public official. That is a constitutional right which is guaranteed to all our citizens.

"Our citizenry has a duty and obligation to step forward and testify and so assist us in our work. These include signers of the petitions or any other individual who might have evidence.

"Any person desiring to testify need only contact the district attorney or the foreman of the grand jury."

For many centuries, the grand jury has been regarded as a security to the individual of his rights. The institution known as the grand jury antedates the Norman conquest of England. It was the seed from which grew a system of government that is called democracy. The Magna Charta forbade that felonies should be prosecuted in any other manner than by the traditional grand jury and the same provision is incorporated in the U. S. Constitution and in all of the states.

The grand jury has power, and it is their duty, to inquire into all crimes committed or triable in the county and to present them to the court. Grand juries are clothed with inquisitorial powers and of their own motion may make full investigation to see whether a crime has been committed, and if so, who committed it. They may investigate on their own knowledge, or upon information of any kind derived from any source deemed reliable.

In reaching a decision, a grand jury has wide power and wide latitude. It may in any case ask the advice of any judge of the court, or of the district attorney of the county. The grand jury, however, is not obliged to call in the district attorney but may vote to indict without his presence, and, indeed, against his advice.

The function of the grand jury is to hold people for trial or refuse to do so, on the basis of the evidence presented to it. Its deliberations are secret.

The jury system has been an accepted part of the legal fabric of the English-speaking peoples for many centuries and has proved itself to be an invaluable security for the enjoyment of liberty and property down through these centuries.

Living beyond our means often accompanies failure to live according to our years, and what could be a more dangerous combination?

IT DEPENDS ON US ALL

The National Safety Council reports that accident fatalities on streets and highways fell three per cent in 1957 below the tragic 39,628 of 1956.

Any improvement must be welcomed, but 38,500 traffic deaths are still far too many for us to rest complacent.

There remains altogether too much public apathy toward safety problems, reflected in the indifferent programs many states have in this field. The attitude seems to be: "I'm all right as a driver. It's the other guy

WHOSE ANTENNAE?

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has been publishing an interesting series of articles about herself in "The Saturday Evening Post." They are, in many ways, a postscript to her autobiography.

The particular article to which I refer contains some criticism of John Foster Dulles, our Secretary of State, which requires examination. The matter comes up in relationship to Nehru of India, for whom Mrs. Roosevelt has considerable admiration. She says:

"... I cannot help but feel that Mr. Dulles fails to understand the feelings of many of the peoples with whom we must deal—that he lacks antennae with which to reach out and sense the attitudes of others at times when such attitudes may be of utmost importance in our struggle against Communism."

The question, of course, is whether the Secretary of State is a good-will ambassador or a finely-schooled strategist in international relations prepared by knowledge and experience to negotiate with other countries in the interests of the United States. That phrase, "in the interests of the United States," may not concern Mrs. Roosevelt too much because she is devoting the latter years of her life to the interests of the United Nations and there could be a conflict of interest.

It might be argued that a good negotiator is one who understands those with whom he negotiates, but it cannot be argued that he is any good if he is always conceding to the other side, always sacrificing the interests of his own nation. In the long history of sacrificing the United States from 1933 to 1948, the record is so one-sided that surely some country in this world ought to be grateful to the United States. After World War I, at any rate, Finland was grateful and paid its debts. After World War II, such countries as India have shown no gratitude whatsoever for this country. Their attitude might be summed up in the phrase, "What have you done for me lately?"

The reason Mrs. Roosevelt desires Secretary of State Dulles to have antennae which reach out and sense the attitudes of others, is that the aforesaid others "may be of utmost importance in our struggle against Communism." But these others, even after receiving such gracious aid at the hands of the Government of the United States, in most instances have been neutral between the United States and Soviet Russia. Nehru, for instance, is neutral.

What particular value is it to have a Secretary of State who gives up the taxpayers' earnings until it hurts and all we get for it is the kind of neutralism which Nehru produced in India and Sugarno produced in Indonesia?

Another generalization in this article that requires correction is the following:

"I remember when President Truman sent Gen. George C. Marshall to China during the critical days of the civil war, to attempt to persuade Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to inaugurate governmental reforms in an effort to unite all factions."

That was General Marshall's task. General Marshall's task was to intervene in the civil war which was occurring in China between the government which was our ally and the Chinese Communists who were serving Soviet Russia. General Marshall's activities were such that the Chinese Communists were able to gain, after a long truce, a strategic position in Manchuria which resulted first in the conquest of China by Soviet Russia, one of the most serious defeats this country encountered in its history, and secondly, the Soviet direction of the Korean War which has proved so disastrous to us.

Mrs. Roosevelt is critical of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek. She says:

"I think that intellectually she understands what democracy means, but despite the fact that she went to college in this country she does not know how to live democracy." Madame Chiang, Mei-ling Soong, came to the United States when she was a young child, lived with Bishop Ainsworth in Macon, Georgia, and then studied at Wellesley College. I have known Madame Chiang as girl and married woman nearly 40 years. She was a close friend of my first wife and there were times, when we were younger, when we saw each other daily. Madame Chiang may not confuse disorderly living with democracy, but she is as trained in the American concept of life as any girl can be who spends most of her childhood and youth in this country.

★ Your Child's Health ★ Teen-Ager Wonders How She Can Stop Graying Hair

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

It is not only parents who write me regarding problems with their youngsters, but sometimes the youngsters themselves write.

For example, Babs says that she is 15 and has a lot of gray hairs. She asks what causes them and whether she can prevent herself from getting any more.

The exact cause of premature graying of the hair is somewhat obscure. Most teen-agers, or young adults who start graying early, are otherwise in excellent health. There does, however, seem to be a family tendency in this direction and that is about the only clue.

In spite of occasional reports about a vitamin for gray hair the scientific basis for any method is doubtful. I think Babs should not worry about this, but should either accept it or plan to adopt some safe method of tinting the hair.

A MOTHER SAYS that her seven-year-old boy has been bright since birth, walked and talked early, and yet failed in first grade. She says the teacher told her that the little boy cannot follow directions and is a day-dreamer; yet everything he falls in at school he does correctly at home.

Of course there may be factors involved which the mother did not put in her letter. However, many children are daydreamers and one would not expect that this quality should be blamed for failure in school.

Assuming that the mother's account is accurate, a better explanation from the teacher for failing a little first-grader seems in order.

MRS. C. ASKS if a child four years old can have fallen arches as a result of going barefooted. This question is difficult to answer since primitive people who go barefooted all their lives rarely suffer with fallen arches. On the other hand, today many children are given arch supports in their shoes from a very early age.

It is my impression that a four-year-old child would not suffer broken arches simply as a result of walking barefooted. It seems more likely that there was some inborn weakness in the foot.

But fallen arches can be a terrible nuisance throughout life so that advice on treatment should be obtained. This will usually involve attention to shoeing and may include instruction in walking, foot exercises and perhaps other measures.

who's causing all the trouble."

The death total of 38,500 says emphatically that the problem is everybody's.

What a resplendent spectacle the world stage will present when that iron curtain lifts!

Washington News

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Federal Communications Commission Chairman John C. Doerfer's defense for having accepted cash fees and expenses for delivering speeches to meetings of broadcasters is that the law specifically authorized him to do so.

They are saying that if it were called a deep freeze or a milk coat, it would probably be considered morally wrong and unethical. But as long as it's cash and called an "honorarium" he can get away with it. Officials of other government agencies couldn't.

Most congressmen, of course, take honorariums all the time for speeches they deliver or magazine articles published under their names. So the question is, what was the intent of Congress when it passed this law which makes an exception for Federal Communications Commissioners and allows them to take it?

What the law says is: (47 U. S. Code, Section 154 (b) Communications Act of 1932) "The Commissioners shall not engage in any other business, vocation, profession or employment; but this shall not apply to the presentation or delivery of publications or papers for which a reasonable honorarium or compensation may be accepted."

MOST GOVERNMENT officials now admit that this section of the law is bad and should be repealed. But Department of Justice research into the history of the act shows how this loophole got in.

The original 1934 Communications act said simply: "The Commissioners shall not engage in any other business, vocation, profession or employment." That's all. It was a flat ban.

But this was changed, along with a lot of other things, when the act was revised in 1952. The honorable commissioners themselves seem to have suggested the first change.

Senate Report 44, Feb. 5, 1951, says that the commissioners pointed out to the Congress that the 1934 law prevented them from "the wholly meritorious preparation and publication of technical papers."

When this was corrected by the Senate and sent over to the House, it was further amended to permit the commissioners to receive pay for their meritorious preparation of papers.

AS THE LATE Wayne Coy, who was then FCC chairman, explained to the House Interstate Commerce Committee:

"It is a tradition on the commission, as you gentlemen know for one or more members to be engineering commissioners with special technical knowledge in the radio field.

"Some of these commissioners have written valuable textbooks in the field of radio. Where they, or any other commissioners have done so, it seems reasonable to allow them to receive a royalty on the books during their tenure of office."

Chairman Coy's intent, according to this testimony, was simply to allow pay for professional publications.

But the Congress didn't stop at that. When the Senate and House versions of the amendment went into conference of the two Interstate Commerce committees to iron out differences, the language was broadened. The conference report explains it this way:

"It is deemed advisable to permit not only the preparation of publications, but also their delivery or presentation at, for example, public meetings."

THEN THE LANGUAGE of Section 154 (b) as quoted above, was approved by both houses of the Democratic 82nd Congress and signed into law by President Truman. The only trouble was that the Democrats didn't stay in office long enough thereafter to get any gray out of the amendment.

U. S. Comptroller General Joseph Campbell's objections to the honorariums and expenses paid to FCC Chairman Doerfer by radio industry groups is based on an interpretation of this law, which he admits is far from clear.

Mr. Campbell contends that an FCC commissioner may accept an honorarium only when he is not on official government business. If a commissioner just goes out to make a speech, as Mr. Doerfer did, then he is on government business.

He should therefore be paid only the per diem expenses allowed any other government official on Uncle Sam's business. A General Accounting Office interpretation of the law is that Congress did not intend to allow FCC officials the right to accept extra money from outside sources which the officials of other government regulatory agencies can't receive by law.

Second Survey Planned on Data For TV Antenna

The second phase of a survey to determine the feasibility of erecting a community TV antenna in the township of Woodstock is expected to start next week, with George Hard, the well known radio commentator, in charge.

Hard's survey for the Elliott Clark Sound and TV Service of Kingston is a follow-up on the preliminary survey conducted several days ago. It will be primarily a telephone check during the evening hours when most folks can be reached at home.

The earlier survey, according to Clark, was inconclusive and more data will be needed before he proceeds with plans to apply for a master antenna franchise in the township.

Clark said early reaction on the part of TV owners was "encouraging" but not enough people had been contacted in three densely populated areas to form any definite conclusions.

"The erection of the antenna and the wires represents a heavy investment," he said, "and we must be absolutely sure before we go before the Town Board with a request for a franchise. A substantial percentage of the people we did reach liked the idea and said they would. We think that a telephone check in the evening will enable us to reach enough people to give us realistic figures on which to proceed."

It is understood, too, that the Clark company might consider a financial plan whereby the subscribers would not have to pay the installation fee in one installment. The payments might be extended over a period of time.

In his early talks with the board, Clark said there would be an initial installation cost and a monthly charge thereafter. He said he thought a master antenna erected on Overlook mountain might enable local viewers to tune in six snow-free channels.

Fitzsimmons, Forno Attend Towns Meeting

Supervisor Joseph (Buzzy) Fitzsimmons and Justice of the Peace Joseph S. Forno attended the 25th anniversary meeting and dinner of the Association of Towns of the State of New York this week at the Commodore Hotel in New York.

The two members of the local board were among several hundred delegates from around the state who heard a brilliant array of speakers on a variety of topics touching every phase of town government.

Supervisor Fitzsimmons and Justice Forno said the three-day meeting was highly informative and they returned with many new theories of town government, town statutes, ordinances and many other related matters.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner welcomed the guests.

Attend Model Meeting

The two local representatives attended a model town board meeting at which Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz acted as town attorney and discussed the legal aspects of many problems discussed by the board.

Nelson A. Rockefeller, a possible Republican candidate for governor, spoke on the "New America." State Comptroller Arthur Levitt discussed "Physical Stability of Towns" and Joseph F. Carlini, Republican majority leader of the state Senate, spoke on "Local and Legislative Problems in 1958."

The meeting also heard State Education Commissioner James E. Allen talk on "Education in Government" and Edward T. Dickinson, State Commerce Commissioner, discuss "Local Identity of Regional Planning."

Justice Forno attended the special Justices of the Peace panel which featured several noted speakers. Nelson Murbach of the State Education Department was one. Lloyd A. Mader, director of the New York State Traffic Commission spoke on new state traffic laws that will go into effect on April 1. Justice

Forno also heard a talk on delinquent dog owners and motor vehicle bureau problems discussed by Arnold Weiss.

Law Cases Explained

The pitfalls of trying civil and criminal cases were outlined by John R. Marshall, director of training in Civil Law, "Proper Record Keeping" was the topic by Walter F. Mann, examiner of the Department of Audit and Control.

Hon. Francis E. Bergen of the Appellate Division gave a brilliant address on the highly controversial "Youthful Offender Law."

Supervisor Fitzsimmons, who also heard many speakers, said he was impressed by the address given by Emmett Schnepf of the town of Irondequoit on "Town Board Licensing and Regulating Powers." A great deal of emphasis was placed on trailer ordinances, he said.

Paul Reusse, second assistant attorney general, and Harold Conroy spoke on budget procedures, cash books and ledgers, borrowing and financing. The new bingo laws also received considerable attention.

William H. Donahue, former supervisor of the Town of Catskill, is president of the association.

Space Heater Is Blamed for Fire In Highland Area

Miss Dorothy Minard of the hamlet of Centerville, about three miles west of Highland, was reportedly dozing on her living room couch about midnight Thursday when she "felt heat on her arm."

She woke to discover one entire side of the room in flames. The telephone was dead so she dashed to a neighbors where she called the Highland Fire Department.

Nothing could be saved however.

The one and a half story frame dwelling owned by Miss Minard's father, Arthur Minard, who was convalescing in an area hospital at the time of the fire, was described by Chief Bud Tortorella as "gutted."

Some 35 volunteers of the company, who laid 1,200 feet of hose to a small creek, were able to save only the frame.

Chief Tortorella said the fire was apparently caused by a faulty space heater in the living room.

Miss Minard was watching television when she dozed off, it was reported.

The Minard's lost everything in the fire. Miss Minard spent the night with the family of Police Chief Fred Bragg, next door. Minard bought the house about a year ago and had made a number of improvements, it was reported.

Midsouth Covered With Light Snow

MEMPHIS (AP)—Snow covered much of the midsouth today but lingering traces of summer warmth in the earth kept the fall shrunken to manageable depth.

Even so, at least five highway traffic deaths were reported in the area, with weather conditions listed as a contributing factor in four of them.

Six State Area

The fall covered nearly all of Tennessee and parts of adjoining states—Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Alabama and Mississippi.

The weather bureau said the average depth would be less than three inches because much of the snow melted. Up to eight inches had been predicted for some sectors.

In the southerly areas, the light "stick" was a disappointment for small fry, who welcome the infrequent snow storms. It was a relief for everyone else.

In the south, where the art of driving on ice or snow covered streets and highways is unknown, a few inches of snow—say six or more—stops most traffic.

Highway patrol reports said all highways were hazardous but passable. Buses, trains and planes were running on or near schedule.

Dampens Mardi Gras

At New Orleans, the continued unseasonal cold weather brought sagging spirits to mardi gras revelers.

Hermes, usually one of the most brilliant parades of the season, was rained out last night, and merry-makers anxiously awaited resumption of the carnival parades.

The Krewe of Babylon, a victim of Wednesday's snowfall, was scheduled to parade today, but a break in the weather was needed before the procession could reach the streets.

Concern Shown For Campanella's Chances to Walk

GLEN COVER (AP)—There was considerable concern today that Roy Campanella, Los Angeles Dodgers catcher, might never walk again.

Campanella is paralyzed from the chest down as the result of an automobile accident Jan. 28 when he suffered a broken neck. He underwent an emergency operation that lasted more than four hours. Afterward he recovered sensation in the upper part of the body, could move his fingers but now the paralysis condition apparently has become stagnant.

"I cannot comment on the Campanella case specifically," a physician told the New York Post, "but speaking generally I have never heard of a case where a patient's progress stopped, then suddenly resumed in a spurt. The progress is invariably gradual."

Mangum Is Given Reprimand Over Voiding Arrest

NEW YORK (AP)—Deputy Police Commissioner Robert J. Mangum was officially reprimanded yesterday for voiding a traffic arrest, but he was returned to duty.

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy ended his investigation with the statement:

"In view of his outstanding record, without minimizing the fact that in this case it is clear that good judgment was not used, Deputy Mangum is hereby reprimanded."

Kennedy said his investigation showed "an entire absence of corrupt motive."

Mangum removed from a police blotter the arrest of a friend, Mrs. Hazel Sharper, 38. Both are Negroes.

The incident occurred last Sept. 25. Mrs. Sharper was arrested after a row with a policeman when she allegedly made a wrong turn on a Manhattan street.

Mrs. Sharper, a public relations consultant, maintained the only reason she had been charged with disorderly conduct was because of her race.

When the incident became public, Kennedy ordered the charge reinstated. After a trial in magistrate's court, the charge was dismissed.

Woman, 78, Dies, Son's Wife Held On Manslaughter

BUFFALO (AP)—A 78-year-old widow died here last night with a knife wound in her back. Her daughter-in-law has been charged with first-degree manslaughter and sent to a hospital for observation.

The victim was Mrs. Clara Gaessler. Her son, Elwood Gaessler, 53, told police last night she had lived with him and his wife, Vera, 54, since their marriage 34 years ago.

Gaessler, an employee at a local automobile agency, said the two women did not get along and avoided contact.

He and his wife quarreled last night during dinner and afterward she went upstairs where his mother's bedroom is, he said.

Gaessler told investigators his mother screamed "she's trying to stab me." He rushed upstairs and found his wife holding a bloody kitchen knife, he said, and his mother with blood on her back.

Police said Gaessler's wife appeared distraught when they arrived, alternately shouting and sobbing and lapsing into silence.

"I'm sorry, I'm sorry," she shouted at them, "I told Elwood to get her out of here."

FCC Head Will Be Heard on Defense

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators will hear next week a Federal Communications Commission's defense against charges that he accepted money from a lawyer in a contested television case.

Commissioner Richard A. Mack yesterday termed the charges "without foundation" and a few hours later plans were announced to hear Mack either Wednesday or Thursday.

Chairman Harris (D-Ark) of a House subcommittee investigating the charges said that before Mack takes the witness chair, the group expects to hear from four men linked with Mack in testimony about the channel 10 case in Miami, Fla. The four Miamians were called to appear on Tuesday.

Bernard Schwartz, ousted last Monday as the subcommittee's counsel, testified Thursday that Mack had acknowledged accepting "thousands of dollars" from Thurman A. Whiteside, a Miami lawyer. Schwartz said Whiteside represented Public Service Television Inc., which won the channel 10 grant from the FCC last year after a contest with three other applicants. Mack voted with the majority in the FCC's 4-2 decision in favor of Public Service.

Mrs. Cox said the family was badly in need of clothing and furniture—particularly a kitchen table and chairs.

Forecasters said the storm center was expected to loom in the Atlantic off Cape Hatteras, N. C., tomorrow morning. The amount of snow New York gets will depend on how long the storm clings to the coast before moving out to sea, the bureau said.

In a "preliminary weekend weather alert," the bureau said the storm had spread south as far northward as Kentucky and southern Virginia this morning.

It is as yet too early to tell how much snowfall this storm will bring to interior sections of Eastern New York," the report added. The bureau said additional bulletins would be issued later today and tonight giving "more definite indications of the expected weather."

such an examination. And in those places where the number passing turned out to be low, Price said, "the local people would try to find out why their community was behind the others."

Not Competitive

The examination, he said, would not be competitive—that is, every boy and girl who passed it would get a $500 award from the federal government.

He said the nationwide exam could be prepared along lines used by college entrance boards in drafting tests.

Price said that right now, the percentage of high school graduates who could pass such an exam is "pretty low." He did not give the percentage, but said that "if we could increase that number by even 10 per cent," it would accomplish a great deal towards boosting the potential supply of scientists and engineers.

Firemen Check Two Calls, False Alarm

Firemen answered three calls Friday afternoon and early evening, and one, which proved a false alarm, was turned in by a young boy who told firemen he did not know it was an alarm box.

A call at 3:44 p. m. was for a fire in a clothes dryer at 202 North Manor Avenue in a residence owned by George Carpenter. Firemen said lint in the dryer became overheated.

Firemen sped to German and Ravine Streets at 4:18 p. m. on what proved to be a false alarm.

A five-year-old boy told firemen he pulled the alarm box there, but was unaware that the box was used for sounding a fire alarm.

A call at 5:20 p. m. was to 284 Linderman Avenue for grease burning in a pan, which scorched paint on a cabinet over the stove.

Fire headquarters were notified while men and equipment were en route to that address that the fire had been extinguished.

Japan Regrets Zone

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese foreign office today called "exceedingly regrettable" the U. S. proclamation of a danger zone of some 390,000 square nautical miles near Eniwetok for nuclear tests.

Japanese fleets sometimes fish in the central Pacific area.

The Atomic Energy Commission in Washington warned yesterday that ships and planes should stay out of the rectangular area beginning April 5. The area is about 120 nautical miles west of a similar zone used in the last Eniwetok test series.

A nautical mile is 1.15 land miles.

Reports Executions

HONG KONG (AP)—A Communist newspaper said today two Nationalist Chinese espionage agents were executed yesterday in the south China port of Canton.

They were also ordered to bomb a movie house last Oct. 10, the national day of Nationalist China, but were arrested before they could do so, the paper said.

Your Life And Mine

By CLYDE HERRBERT SWELL

THE SAVING WISDOM

I have in my library an old third-grade reader. Some parts of the book are mutilated; and it so happens the page is missing which gave the year of publication. But from some pencilled dates, marked in by the budding scholars who used it, I would judge the book was printed around 1860 or 70.

Those who grew up during that era, as well as those who have perused such books, can tell you that the day-school reading lessons in those days served a double purpose. They taught pupils to read; and they imparted some wise counsel about life. The stories and poems were not just to provide practice for the eye and the mind; they bore a message to the heart as well. Almost inevitably the reading lessons pointed up a moral truth, always life was pictured as a sacred privilege and responsibility bestowed by a Divine hand.

Back in those days civilization had not, as yet, "progressed" sufficiently to consider it subversive to mention the name of God in a classroom. Folks were still "ignorant" enough to believe it was perfectly proper for a teacher to read from the Bible as a part of the opening exercises to begin the day. They had not, as yet, made the "enlightened" discovery that any attempt to give moral and spiritual guidance for life in the school is distorted indoctrination. Back there in that non-progressive era it was even considered to be very much in order, if a teacher chose, to lead his or her students in a little prayer for God's help and guidance as they took up their studies for the day. Can you imagine such "stupidity"? We must forgive them, I guess, on the grounds that that was a long, long time ago; and we have had a grand opportunity during the intervening years to learn so much about the science of education which our forefathers never knew. We must not be too harsh on ancients who never had our opportunities.

But wait a minute! A strange thought has just struck me. Do you suppose it could be possible there is some connection between the fears we have lest some teacher breathe the name of God in a classroom, or give any pupil the idea that life is a privilege and responsibility bestowed by the Divine as a sacred trust, and the desperate school situations which make principals jump off roofs to their death or cause civil authorities to be beside themselves as to what to do about the mounting problem of the juvenile delinquents?

Bellamy Partridge reminisces delightfully about his youth in his book entitled, "Big Family." He writes that his mother "cleared out a lot of Victorian junk from the parlor and replaced it with older and sounder items from the attic." Maybe we ought to venture up into the attic of our history in our quest for some of the answers to our most perplexing problems. At least such rummaging could do no harm; especially since all the other places we look seem only to provide us with more gloom and discouragement. It is faintly possible that what we, in our "enlightenment," have dubbed ancestral "ignorance" and "stupidity" may turn out to be the saving wisdom. Do you suppose?

Seeks Summer

"wants to restrict the Republican candidate for governor to a four-week campaign as against Mr. Harriman's four-year campaign."

Charge Betrayal
Assemblyman J. Eugene Goddard of Rochester, the chairman, and Sen. Frank S. McCullough of Rye, both Republicans, said the governor's action betrayed "a deep-rooted lack of confidence . . . in his own dismal record. . . ."

Under the September convention setup, the secretary of state would not certify nominations of candidates until Oct. 14.

Heck and Mahoney pointed out that this would leave only 20 days for the ballots to be printed, distributed to servicemen throughout the world, and returned to county boards.

The ballots must be filed by noon, Nov. 3, to be counted.

BRIDGE

Mississippi Hand Returns Again

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Contract is derived from Auction which in turn comes from the game of Bridge. In Bridge hearts was the ranking suit and the dealer either named trump or "Bridged It" to his partner who had to name trump. Either opponent could double and doubling and redoubling were unlimited.

Some Mississippi River steamboat gamblers invented the so-called Mississippi Hand hand in which the dealer was given the six top hearts and seven top cards in two other suits with a void in the fourth. He would make it a heart and when an opponent doubled would redouble indefinitely. The opponent would hold the other seven hearts and six top cards in the void suit so declarer would be down one.

The hand is discussed in my new book, "The Fireside Book of Cards," which was published on Dec. 6, and believe it or not the hand was actually dealt in a family game in Scranton, Pa., late in November and reported to me by one of the players, Harry Rosenthal, on Dec. 4, just two days before my book came out.

All four players attest that the deal was proper. Mr. Rosenthal opened seven spades and was doubled. He refrained from redoubling so he only lost 1,300

This hand happened to be a spade hand. If Mr. Rosenthal had bid slowly and shown his four card heart suit he might have reached the heart grand slam. A club lead by West would have beaten him one trick while he would make it on a heart or diamond opening.

Tilt Tool to Sand Properly

There's a right way and several incorrect ways to use an electric drill that has been adapted for sanding, caution "do-it-yourself" experts.

The proper method of sanding with an electric drill is described as follows:

Tip the drill forward at a slight angle, pressing the front arc of the abrasive disc along the work evenly with smooth, fairly-fast strokes. Tilting the drill keeps the whole abrasive disc off the work.

Don't tilt the drill too far forward, they warn, or you will cut down the sanding area of the disc and be applying too much uneven pressure. Again, don't press the whole abrasive disc on the work.

If you press harder in one spot than in another, circular sanding marks will show. Too much pressure in one spot also will result in a circular depression that will mar the finish.

Change the sanding disc as often as the paper clogs. Follow the same procedure for sanding painted-surfaces, using a fine-grain grit.

Paint for Stenciling

For applying stencils, don't use ordinary paint because it's usually too thin and will run. It's best to use colors-in-oil thinned down a little with turpentine.

Ice Jam on Roof Often Damages Walls and Paint

When you see paint peeling on a house, it's a warning signal that there's trouble within the walls — trouble caused by moisture. At this time of year especially, the area under the eaves is exceptionally vulnerable. In the regions of the country beset by snow, the most frequent cause of such trouble is the ice dam.

An ice dam develops often when snow covers the roof of a house and the outdoor temperature is below freezing. Heat escaping through the roof melts the snow. When the water flows to the cold zones lower down on the roof or in the gutter, it freezes. The ice dam, thus formed, blocks the escape of the next cascade of melted snow. Before long, there are trapped pools of water behind the ice dam and these are likely to work their way behind shingles and roof covering to the interior.

Attack Can Begin

In this way, moisture's attack can begin, ruining ceilings and walls, rotting structural members. In addition, the siding of the house immediately underneath the eaves is subjected to the destructive onslaught from the overflowing gutters and the paint is the first visible victim.

To prevent the formation of ice dams, there are several protective measures possible. For one thing, the installation of additional insulation on the inside of a roof will reduce the amount of warm air escaping through the roof from indoors—thus eliminating the initial cause of an ice dam's formation.

For another, gutters should be kept clean so that no leaves, acorns or twigs will block the flow of melted ice.

In sections of the country where most of the winter is snowy, it's frequently helpful to install a heating wire over the lower 16 inches of the roof—as well as in gutters and downspouts. Such a heating device enables you—at the flick of a switch—to keep the gutter cleared out for the passage of water.

An Effective Defense

One of the most effective defenses against leaks caused by ice dams consists of placing a strip of sheet metal under the shingles. Such a flashing should be carried up to a point approximately three feet above the wall line. This will prevent any backed-up water from seeping inside.

The damage caused by an ice dam can often be extensive before it is discovered. It's wise to examine the siding underneath eaves and gables frequently. If your paint shows a telltale peel, an ice dam has probably been at work and immediate action is necessary. If possible, though, take protective steps to combat this winter menace before it strikes.

Clean Paint Brushes

Paint brushes need cleaning after each use. If paint, varnish or shellac is allowed to dry in a brush, it never again is free of dried flecks. To clean, scrape off excess paint from the brush, against the edge of the can. Then swipe back and forth on newspapers. Wash several times in the liquid used as a thinner. Then, wash the brush in soap or detergent suds, rinse and dry.

The Toledo An Interesting Ranch-Type

Rooms ..... Six
Bedrooms ..... Two
Closets ..... Six
Cubage ..... 28,000 ft.
Dimensions ..... 51' x 40'

This modified ranch type home contains complete living facilities on one floor. An abundance of windows assures plenty of light and ample ventilation in all the rooms; also greatly enhances both the exterior and interior appearance of the house.

Measuring 51' x 40' in overall dimensions, "The Toledo" has a cubage of 28,000 feet when only a partial basement is excavated. At least a 70 foot lot would be required to hold the house and attached garage. "The Toledo" does not have to be placed any great distance from the street, but do select a location where the picture window will enable you to reap full benefits of any view.

Not only does the narrow porchway, in front of the living room add a distinctive informal touch to the appearance of the house, but it also provides welcome protection for the front entry. The front door opens on a small hallway containing a large coat closet in its back wall.

To the left, an open archway leads from this hallway to the 18'x13' living room. The large picture window in the front wall of this spacious room and the fireplace centered in its right wall, tie for top decorative honors. Be certain to keep these two important features of the room in mind when planning your decorative and furniture arrangements.

Unbroken Left Wall

The long unbroken expanse along the left wall of the room facilitates the placement of any large furniture pieces. If you so desire, you could build bookshelves along a portion of this wall. It's always a good idea to provide a definite storage place for books, for in so many homes they seem to collect on couches, tables and even on the floor itself.

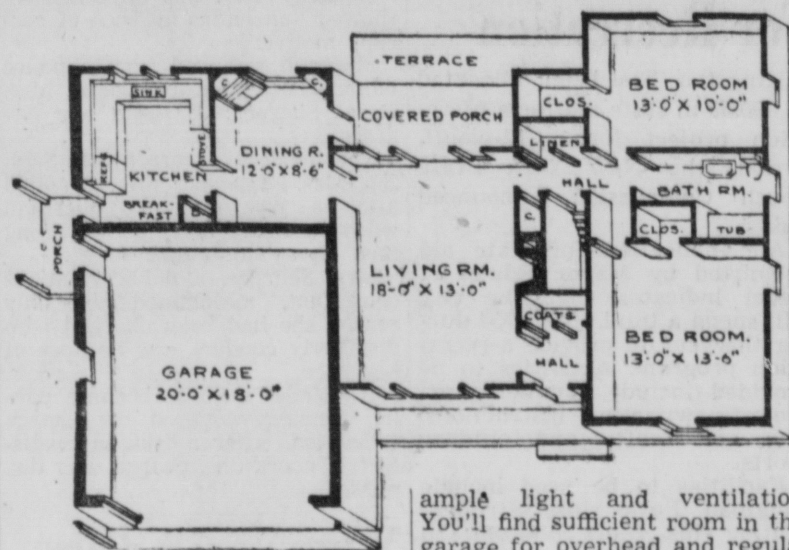

Two windows and the French door in the back living room wall look out on the covered porch and connecting terrace. A door from the dining room also leads to the covered porch

Glueing Wood Dowel

Before you glue a wood dowel into place, cut a small groove into the length of the dowel. This will allow any excess glue to flow out and insure a better fit and a tighter joint.

Stopping Door Leak

If water comes in under an outside door when there is a heavy wind-driven rain, fasten a strip of drip moulding along the bottom edge of the outside face of the door.

which, along with the terrace, can be made just as pleasant, comfortable and attractive as you want it to be.

In the left wall of the living room is a door opening directly on to the dining room. China closets, complete with linen storage drawers underneath, can be built into both back corners of this 12'x8'6" room. The large window in the back dining wall admits an abundance of light and air to make this room unusually pleasant; place the dining room set where you'll be able to fully enjoy the benefits of this large window.

Dining room and kitchen are directly connected by an open doorway. Working counters are placed in the popular U arrangement along the left, back and right walls of the 8 foot square kitchen. The refrigerator is conveniently placed at the left end of the line of working counters. The stove is at the right end while the sink is centered in the middle of the array, directly under the double windows in the back wall of the kitchen.

Against the front wall, to the left of the spacious broom closet, an area is set apart to be used as the breakfast nook. This eating area will undoubtedly see lots of use as a handy spot in which to enjoy between meal snacks and family lunches.

Service Entrance

The door in the left wall of the kitchen is the service entrance. It opens on a good sized porch. A side door from the garage also opens on this porch thus providing protected entrance to and from the garage. One window in the left wall provides the 20'x18' garage with

Baseboards End Spotty Heating

If you're uncomfortable because of "spotty" heating, have a look at the location of room heat distributors. They may be improperly placed along an inside wall.

In this position they can't control drafts originating around windows and cold outside walls. Correcting the misplacement of heating units for greater comfort would be a good home improvement project. Better yet would be the installation of new heating units — baseboards — which assure uniformity of temperature throughout the house straight through the heating season.

Heating baseboards are installed around the chilly perimeter of the house, radiating heat at ankle height to keep floors warm and sending up a curtain of warmth to shut out the cold entering around window frames. The thermometer registers virtual uniformity of temperature in a baseboard-heated room — from floor to ceiling, from wall to wall.

Hot boiler water is pumped to baseboards as often as the thermostat calls for heat. The pump shuts off promptly when the thermostat is satisfied, preventing overheating.

Baseboards are highly recommended for replacing old-fashioned radiators. They go in where wooden baseboards come out. Painted to match the wall where they are installed, they are inconspicuous and complement the decor and furnishings of the room.

Drain Heater

Most water heaters should be drained monthly to remove dirt and rust which may discolor your plumbing fixtures. The average water heater can be cleaned simply by attaching your garden hose to the draincock and letting the water run until it is clear.

ample light and ventilation. You'll find sufficient room in this garage for overhead and regular storage space.

In "The Toledo" the two bed rooms occupy the right wing of the house and are reached by a connecting hallway that leads from the living room. Both a general purpose closet and an attractive large linen closet open off this connecting hallway. So, also, do the stairs to the basement.

Windows in the back and right walls assure cross ventilation in the back bedroom. This 13'x10' room boasts an unusually large closet; one that can easily provide sufficient storage space for two people if this room is shared.

Thoroughly modern, the bathroom is large enough to hold both a tub, a shower and receives ample light and ventilation through the one window in its right wall.

Designed to serve as the master bedroom, the front bedroom is 13'x13'6" in dimension. This room reaps the benefits of cross ventilation and good sunshine through one window in the right wall and another in the front wall. The large closet, placed in the back wall, can easily take care of the storage needs of the occupants of this room.

In the partial basement of "The Toledo" the heating equipment should be placed under the living room; the laundry can be placed under the bathroom for the most economical plumbing arrangement.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available. Address requests mentioning name of home, to Home of the Week, Inc., Dept. KF, 87 Weybosset street, Providence, R. I.

New Non-Skid Plastic

A new polyethylene plastic just put on the market is said by the manufacturer to be a tough, economical, non-skid material excellent for such uses as hallway runners, drainboard coverings or car floor mats. It is translucent and can be cut with ordinary scissors.

Painting Tip

Before starting to paint ceiling loosen the base plates of all lighting fixtures so that they can be dropped down a few inches. Drape the fixtures with an old cloth or large sheet of paper to protect them against paint splatters.

Designs Can Be Etched on Glass

Designs can be etched on plate or safety glass with an electric hand grinder.

Paste a drawing or a photo that you wish to copy on the under surface of the glass. In case you don't want to use the original, make a tracing and attach it. Be certain that it can't tear loose during the etching.

Carefully "grind" along the outline on the top surface with your hand grinder. "Do-it-yourself" planners recommend that pointed grinding stones be used for the fine lines. Etch the broad lines with the sides of these stones.

Color these etched areas by daubing on enamel. Rub off color that has been smeared on unetched areas.

Such etched glasswork makes eye-pleasing conversation pieces when mounted in picture frames, displayed in serving trays or cut for table tops.

Raised Paneling

Hardwood plywood squares mounted on a furring framework can be used to create the effect of raised paneling, giving added interest to a room. Such an arrangement is most effective above a fireplace or on walls which separate the living room from other areas, according to leading decorators.

When Sizing's Needed

In most cases, sizing a wall before applying wallpaper is not necessary if the wall has paint on it. But bare plaster walls or any other unfinished surfaces require sizing before putting on the wallpaper.

NEW YORK (AP)—Dairy farmers in the New York-New Jersey milkshed will be paid a uniform farm price of $4.67 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts) for their January production, Market Administrator C. J. Blanford announced yesterday.

The December farm price was $4.93 per hundredweight. The farm price in January last year was $4.57.

The producer butterfat differential for January was announced at 5.4 cents for each tenth of a pound of fat above or below the 3.5 per cent standard.

Blanford reported milk production for the month at 804,915,463 pounds. This was 4.76 per cent above December's production of 768,372,000 pounds.

The January pool was supplied by 52,568 producers, 696 fewer than the 53,264 who made deliveries in the previous month.

Farm value of the January production amounted to $38,566,404, Blanford reported.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

Howard C. Shurter, county director of Veterans' Service Agency, and William Hartman, state veteran counselor NYS Division of Veterans Affairs, submit another in a series of articles on rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen and other dependents.

Income Tax—Withholding statements for federal income taxes, Form W-2, are provided service personnel and veterans by the US armed forces for the pay they earned while on active military duty. Veterans who are unable to locate their W-2 forms may obtain duplicates from the branch of service in which they last served. Requests for W-2 forms should include the full name, service serial number, rank, place and date separated, unit in which served and the current address of the person requesting the form. Addresses from which W-2 forms may be obtained are as follows: Army Military Pay Division, Army Finance Center, Indianapolis, Indiana; Navy-Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, 13th and Euclid, Cleveland 15, Ohio; Air Force-USA Finance Center, 3800 York Street, Denver, Colorado; and Marines-Marine Corps Allotment Office, Retired Reserve Section, Hdqts. The data needed includes the date the deed was recorded, a description of the property, the purchase price of the property, the amount of the original mortgage, the present balance on the mortgage, the name and address of the mortgage holder, the name of the person from whom the property was purchased and the date of purchase. This data usually can be obtained from the deed for the property and the receipts for payments on the property or from the amortization table; that is, the cumulative table of payments on principal and interest which is given to the property owner by some lenders. In the event exemption is to be claimed on improvements to the property, it is desirable to bring receipts for labor, material, etc., which went

Dio Is Unhappy After Transfer To Auburn Clink

AUBURN (AP)—Big-time racketeer Johnny Dio was in Auburn Prison today and was not happy. The New York extortionist and 37 other Sing Sing prisoners were transferred yesterday to Auburn, where visits from relatives or pals are less likely.

Dio, 44, was quoted by a Sing Sing official as saying he "didn't like" the transfer.

Dio now is about 330 miles from his New York stamping grounds. The prisoners, shackled in handcuffs and leg irons, made the trip in a chartered bus. The contingent raised Auburn's prison population to 1,702.

Sing Sing officials said the transfer was a routine distribution because of overcrowding at Sing Sing. Officially, the transferees are chosen at random, but the well-known prisoners usually are among those sent to prisons more distant from New York.

Rome Woman, 80, Perishes in Blaze

Her husband, Charles P. Drake, 83, suffered burned hands and shock. He was reported in fair condition in a hospital.

The cause of the fire was not determined. There was no estimate of the damage.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Yes, Virginia, there was a thing called radio."

I can imagine that being said in hundreds of local homes recently — if the youngsters were allowed to stay up to see a TV showing of the movie "The Hucksters." The new generation must have wondered what all the fuss was about in the dog-eat-dog drama of the radio-advertising world.

Radio Still Thriving

Not that radio is dead. It is still a thriving industry. But the frantic competition of network radio has all but vanished with the advent of TV.

Looking back on the radio era, you find it hard to believe that things were that important. But seeing "The Hucksters" again makes you realize that they were. Or so they seemed at the time.

Frederick Wakeman's book had a terrific impact on the industry. I can remember when it came out; the ad-network crowd at the Brown Derby could talk about nothing else for weeks. There was much speculation as to who the real-life counterparts were.

The soap tycoon was recognized as George Washington Hill, the late tobacco magnate who had his own ideas about advertising and entertainment. He popularized the repetitive commercial that drummed its message into a beleaguered audience. He also dictated the kind of music for the Hit Parade and other shows — loud and with a steady beat.

Film Not Success

The other characters were more obscure. The small-time comic who gets a big break in radio was generally conceded to be Pinky Lee, who later had a fling in TV.

The picture was one of Clark Gable's first after the war and Deborah Kerr's first in this country. Despite these values — and Ava Gardner — it was not a success. Looking at it again, I can see why. The big fuss over radio seems ludicrous now, and it must have had little substance to the general public when it was first released.

People in show business have a tendency to take themselves too seriously. Entertainment industry stories can sometimes make for light entertainment. But when they get heavy-handed — it's murder!

Remake Fails

Take the original "A Star Is Born." It was the best picture ever made about Hollywood, because it was clever, candid and not overdone. But the Judy Garland remake was done with such a lavish hand that all the charm went out of the tale. It became a "War and Peace" of the movie business.

I must confess that I like show business stories on the TV and theater screens. But that's because I'm close to the business. I'm afraid the general public must say, as they no doubt did about "The Hucksters," "what's so important about that?"

Latin Lovers Overrated

NEW YORK (AP)—After a 22,300-mile jaunt around the land, actress April Orlach has decided that American men have it all over Latin men when it comes to romance.

"The reputation of Latin lovers is overdone—a lot of fancy flourishes that mean nothing," says Miss Orlach, a 24-year-old British miss who spent most of her teen-years in South America.

During her tour, on behalf of the movie "Pursuit of the Graf Spee," April gained attention by declaring her determination to wed a Yankee.

"I had six proposals but none were right," she says. It bothers her that U. S. women don't seem to appreciate their men fully.

"That's what happens when something is always around," she says.

Advertising has been so busy talking about others it hasn't had time to talk about itself. It is the least understood industry in America. Yet it is a basic economic force.

It helps the farmer sell his crops. It helps the manufacturer sell his factory output. It helps the merchant sell his wares. It helps the technician sell his skill. It encourages giant corporations to tool up for mass production by speeding mass consumption. It is essential to our American Way of Life.

In short, America is a Better America—thanks to Advertising!

All work is a part of the panorama of progress and no task, however humble, should be considered unimportant.

Julius Streicher, Hitler's No. 1 Jew persecutor, complained to foreign correspondents about the way the foreign press portrays him as a depraved brute. "Of course," he explained, "I do fight the Jews in every way I can, but in private life I'm far from heartless. For example, I have two pet canaries, and whenever I am

CONTEMPT: A sophisticated lady is a symbol of "glamor" today. But the word sophist (for sophisticated) throws some light on the subject. It started as a word of contempt for one who attempts to mislead. The Greek Sophists were a school of philosophers. The other scholars disliked them because they accepted money for teaching... thus the term of contempt was applied.

THE POOR CLUB SECRETARY If the secretary writes a letter, it is too long. If he sends a postal, it is too short. If he sends a notice, he is a spend-thrift. If he doesn't send a notice, he is lazy. If he attends a committee meeting, he is butting in. If he stays away, he is a shirker. If the attendance of members is slim, he should have called them up. If he does call them up, he is a pest. If he duns the members for dues, he is insulting. If he fails to collect the dues, he is slipping. If the meeting is a big success, the officers are praised. If he asks for advice, he is incompetent, and if he does not, he is bullheaded. If he writes his minutes complete, they are too long. If he condenses them they are incomplete. If he talks on a subject, he is trying to run things, and if he remains quiet, he has lost interest in the organization. Ashes to ashes, Dust to dust. If the others won't do it, The secretary must.

Young Woman (with dainty shiver, gazing after the runners)—It's dreadfully cold to be without stockings.

The professor's mind, deep in contemplation of the fourth dimension, was attracted by the sound of the girl's voice.

Professor (absently) — Then why, did you leave them off? As a steamer was leaving Athens, a well dressed passenger approached the captain and pointing to the distant hills, inquired:

Passenger—What is that white stuff on those distant hills, captain?

Captain—That is snow, madam.

Lady—Well, I thought so myself. But a gentleman just told me it was Greece.

Alex Osowick Sinks Maroons With 33 Points

John Kelly, Klonowski And Bob Short Sparkle In Defeat—Take Lead With Minute Left

By TONY CORAPI
Freeman Sports Staff

Big Alex Osowick put on his most sensational shooting performance of the season last night to lead Port Jervis to a thrilling 73 to 70 victory over Kingston High in the Kate Walton field house.

The big pivotman fighting for DUSO scoring honors had similar scoring nights, but his shooting, drive and rebounding was something he has not displayed at any other time this year.

With that one in the record books, the Red Raiders are now in a commanding spot for second place honors with a 10-2 slate, compared to the Maroons 9-4.

In defeat, Coach Jack Gilligan's quintet played sensational ball. Although Georgie Uhl failed to match any of his previous game performances, the Maroons got a fine piece of work out of little Bobby Short.

Osowick Red Hot

But not matter how much praise is to be given the Kingstons, the individual performance of Osowick definitely spelled defeat for the opposition. He threw in weird one-handers from all angles to upset any Maroons offensive thrusts.

This went on for the entire game with the exception of the last two minutes when he fouled out. But despite a temporary 68 to 67 Kingston lead with 1:30 left, Osowick had taken the heart out of the Maroons with his high overhead, but accurate shooting.

Take Lead

The locals took its brief lead on a strange five-point play which probably will never occur again in basketball. Unfortunately, one phase of it cannot be explained because we didn't see it and apparently confused the crowd and even the Port bench.

After Bob Strong had made the score 67-65 with a one hander from underneath, John Kelly intercepted or else was fouled under the Kingston basket. This is where we got confused. The referee ruled one shot for Kelly, which indicated that he had scored a basket or at least they thought he did or else it would have been a 1-1 situation.

At any rate, Kelly converted, but Coach Gilligan wanted an explanation for the decision since no basket was signalled. It was then that one of the officials ruled that Kelly had scored putting the Maroons out in front.

Strange Play

What was even more surprising to us there was not a murmur out of Port on the decision. The excitement must have been too much for Coach Pat Farace, because it was later learned that Kelly is yet to score that basket he was credited with.

Despite this bit of life, a second later Charlie Parsons converted two foul shots and again gave the Porters the lead. Four more consecutive points by Charlie Cuddeback and Irv Goldman, led it up.

With 20 seconds left, Joe Klonowski closed the gap with a one-hander, but it was all over but the shouting.

The Maroons sliced Port's 10-point fourth period lead down to 57-56 on a nice spree by Klonowski, Bob Short and Kelly. After Cuddeback and Kelly exchanged baskets, Osowick hit for six straight Port points, save for a foul shot by Uhl.

Deadlocked Early

The Maroons trailed at the first quarter, 17-13. The score was tied at 11 and 13 and not again until six minutes in the third quarter when two Klonowski foul shots deadlocked it at 37 all.

From there until they went ahead in that hectic fourth period, the locals trailed. They whittled a 10-point lead down to one with five minutes left in the last stanza, but they just couldn't come back with that basket to give them a breathing spell.

Deadly At Line

The Porters were deadly at the first quarter, 17-13. The score was tied at 11 and 13 and not again until six minutes in the third quarter when two Klonowski foul shots deadlocked it at 37 all.

Kelly led the locals scoring with 19 points. Klonowski had 16 and Short 13. Uhl ended up with 9, his season's lowest.

Troop 10 Explorers Win Two Contests

Troop 10 Explorers played a combination of Troop 16 and 19 basketball teams and defeated them in two games, 30-13 and 24-16, at the Chambers school.

Howard Crego of Troop 10 was high scorer with 18 points. Fred Keane of Troop 19 had 16 points.

Roosevelt Clips Beacon, 96 to 53, Weiss Gets 36

Roosevelt High advanced its first place position in the Dutchess County league with a sound 96 to 53 decision over Beacon.

At any rate, Kelly converted, but Coach Gilligan wanted an explanation for the decision since no basket was signalled. It was then that one of the officials ruled that Kelly had scored putting the Maroons out in front.

Despite this bit of life, a second later Charlie Parsons converted two foul shots and again gave the Porters the lead. Four more consecutive points by Charlie Cuddeback and Irv Goldman, led it up.

Troop 10 Explorers played a combination of Troop 16 and 19 basketball teams and defeated them in two games, 30-13 and 24-16, at the Chambers school.

Howard Crego of Troop 10 was high scorer with 18 points. Fred Keane of Troop 19 had 16 points.

A basket in the last four seconds by John Quinn gave Arlington High a 72 to 71 triumph over Saugerties High last night at Arlington in a Dutchess County league encounter.

The tight battle produced many thrills in a game which saw the lead change hands five times and saw the score tied a similar amount of times.

At the same time, both teams blew 10-point leads, the Sawyers having that kind of an edge in the second quarter and the Maroons in the third.

The Sawyers were sparked by Barry Wolven, Bob Wolven and Eddie Riozzi, but were hurt considerably when Donny Mormille, usually a dependable scorer, failed to tally a point. To make matters worse, he fouled out in the fourth quarter.

In the clutching seconds, Bob Crowley gave the Sawyers a 71-70 lead with a foul shot. But set the stage for Quinn's goal after a bit of strategy by Coach Fritz Jordan. The timeout paid off as Quinn took a pass from the outside and scored on a layup.

Coach Bud Smith's squad fought on, but a try by Barry Wolven with two seconds left rimmed the basket and popped out.

Paris (A)—America's defending champion, Carol Heiss, today widened her already commanding lead to reach the brink of her third world figure skating crown.

The 18-year-old blonde skating sensation from Ozone Park, N. Y., scored an unofficial 797.7 points in five of six compulsory figures run off in the Sports Palace.

European champion Ingrid Wendt of Austria was second with 730.6 and Hanna Walzer, also of Austria, third with 693.4.

There wasn't a Frenchman who'd bet against the Yanks making a singles sweep after David Jenkins of Colorado Springs retained his Men's Title.

Jenkins gave a breathless free skating exhibition last night to defend his championship, whipping Tim Brown of Carmichael, Calif. One judge rates Jenkins' performance absolutely perfect, something virtually unheard of in figure skating. The crowd of 10,000 stomped, cheered and rattled the rafters in their appreciation.

Gribbins Paces Indians Victory Over Wallkill

Marlboro Edged 51-47 In Big Tilt, Loss of Doug Swartz Factor — Highland Ramps

Led by its sensational all-around performer, Artie Gribbins, Ontario Central last night stayed a step ahead of Rondout Valley in the tight UCAL race with a convincing 61 to 36 triumph over Wallkill High at Boiceville. Rondout edged Marlboro High, 51 to 47. In the other encounter, Highland drubbed New Paltz, 73 to 47.

Coach Ed Witko's Indians were pressed during the first half, but the smooth-working machinery spearheaded by Gribbins began to roll in the third and fourth periods and won going away.

Sharp Second Half

Despite a 14-6 lead at the quarter, the Blue Devils came back strongly in the second to trail at the intermission by a 25 to 22 score. After the rest period, the Witko squad seemed to get sharper and poured in 14 points while the opposition was getting whiter. In the final period, the Indians really poured it on hitting for 22 while Coach Ernie Thompson's squad got nine.

Rondout had a much more difficult time in getting its victory. But thanks to a 23-point second period and a 33-19 halftime edge, the Meehan squad managed to thwart off a Marlboro rally to stay in the thick of the UCAL drive.

Lost Swartz Early

But the unfortunate loss of Marlboro's Doug Swartz on fouls in the third quarter made the difference. It left Coach Joe Cash without a top flight scorer, although Fran Fino gave a good account of himself with 17 points.

The Cashmen put on an all-court press in the final period. It paid off as they checked the Valleyites with only seven points, but the damage had been done. They were unable to overcome that big half margin.

Bill Muston starred with 17 points for Rondout. Bill Bendell had 10 points.

Play With Four

Four of Highland's cagers hit double figures in the New Paltz victory which saw the Hugenots finish the game with only four players. The cellar-dwellers went to Highland with a seven-man varsity squad, and was forced to play the last four minutes with only four men.

At the rate the Highlanders were hitting the mark, it wouldn't have made much difference how many men Paltz had on the court. Ralph Penny had with 15 points, but he was pressed for scoring honors by Leo Lillimaggi, Bill Phillips and Phil Bezzaro, who had 14 points each.

Floyd Diedolf, however, took game honors with a high of 27 points.

Teacher Is Going Ahead Despite Threat of Death

NEW YORK—A 27-year-old mathematics teacher plans to be in school Monday although he has been threatened with death if he appears.

A white man, he is going to his practically all-Negro junior high school in Queens without police protection. He requested none but asked protection for his wife and baby daughter.

Shows Police Threat

This latest incident of violence in the city's schools came to light yesterday when the teacher, Robert Barbarash, showed the mailed threat to police.

Printed in an immature hand was the following:

"Don't go to school Feb. 17 if you want to stay alive."
Barbarash had pressed charges against four boys suspected of sniping at him outside the school with an air rifle. Two of the boys attend his school.

Charges against three of the boys were dismissed. The fourth was released in his parents' custody for a hearing in June. Barbarash was slightly wounded in the lobe of the left ear. He said he lives in fear of young toughs in his classroom.

Call Note Joke

The teacher said he regards the letter as a joke. So did the school's principal, Sherwood H. Friedman. Friedman said he thought the shooting was an accident and that the four boys admitted they often shot the air rifle, or BB gun, from a window near the school at a pole near which Barbarash was hit.

Friedman said the boys denied hitting the teacher and that the school has been free of other serious incidents since he became principal in September 1956.

Barbarash said the principal's strict discipline helped avert violence at the school.

Used School Paper

The teacher said he received the threatening letter, written on paper used in the school classroom, last Thursday afternoon.

His wife, he said, reminded him that one of the boys he had testified against had threatened in a classroom to "get" him if the student failed. The student has since failed.

Barbarash also received another message, printed on a newspaper clipping, that read: "BB plus head equals death."

Iraq and Jordan Celebrate Link To Arab Union

AMMAN, Jordan—Holidays in Iraq and Jordan today marked the proclamation of their joining in an "Arab federation." President Nasser and some Western nations welcomed yesterday's action.

Citizens of the two Arab monarchies seemed to be taking the federation fairly calmly. There was none of the wild celebrating such as occurred in Syria on the proclamation Feb. 1 of the union of Egypt and Syria.

United and Syria into the United Arab Republic under Nasser, Iraq and Jordan combined only their armies, foreign affairs, economies and finances. They will retain separate governments for local affairs.

Both King Faisal II of Iraq and King Hussein of Jordan, 22-year-old second cousins of the Hashemite dynasty, will retain their thrones in the federation when final details have been worked out within a three-month time limit. Faisal will be chief of state.

Unique Sales Pitch

WASHINGTON—The Parent-Teachers Assn. of Leland Junior High School at nearby Bethesda, Md., has started selling $2 tickets to its annual fund-raising play.

There's only one catch. The P-TA isn't staging a play this year. But it figures it's a good way to raise money for school programs nevertheless.

The tickets entitle purchasers to "spend one more nice quiet evening at home."

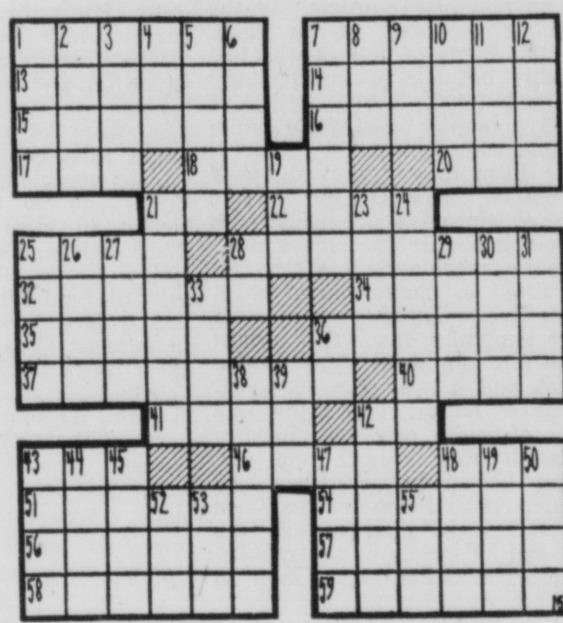

A magnetic knife holder (small size) is handy for hanging small scissors, nail file and nail clippers plus other odds and ends in the bathroom.

Defense Brake On Money Hurts Army, Gavin Says

WASHINGTON—Lt. Gen. James Gavin says that Defense Department money restrictions barred the Army during the last half of 1957 from taking some steps aimed at improving its mobility.

Gavin, who is retiring as the Army's chief of research and development in protest over funds cuts, made this report to House investigators who asked him to cite examples of the effects of money restrictions.

The general submitted his report to a House government operations subcommittee which is looking into government science programs.

Amplifying previous testimony, Gavin said the fund curbs barred the Army during the last six months of 1957 from awarding any research and development contracts designed to step up Army mobility.

Although increased mobility is a primary Army aim in these days of possible missile-and-nuclear war, Gavin's report said no such contracts went out in the first half of the 1958 fiscal year "due to expenditure limitations placed upon the Army by the Department of Defense."
